

Slave Name: Twymon Myers
Name in Struggle: Kakoonya Olugbala (Homey)

This brother Man was one of many black brothers and sisters who knew what needed to be done and who sacrificed all to do it. He loved his people deeply and gave his life trying to bring about a righteous change for the oppressed peoples of the world. He was a Malcolm seed.

He was a Man who had the true knowledge of this so-called democratic system. He knew that this type system must "BE" changed. Otherwise amerikkka would and will, just continue to do the same things it's done and still is doing to the Indians, Black People and all the world's people of color; commit genocide and mass murder.

He was once a victim of the amerikkkan dream till he dug it was just another scheme to keep the masses of people confused and divided. He was also a victim of his love. For some of those who he loved and respected, let the people down, to be murdered on the streets of amerikkka and to be thrown into the dungeons of this amerikkkan system.

Sometimes We wonder if black people have any shame. For they see their children thrown into the systems' dungeons, never to be seen again, and their warriors mutilated and murdered by a rain of this systems bullets and still they remain passive and indifferent. We are not ashamed to say that we loved Kakoonya Olugbala, and anybody else who has and will take up the gun for our freedom, for he was a warrior who loved us (the people). His entire body and soul was committed to the complete freedom of oppressed peoples by any means necessary. He refused to compromise for he realized there is no substitute for freedom. Can you hear his last words clearly saying "Stay away from me or I'll blow you away"? Can you hear the guns begin blazing? His words and action were the same.

His spirit will always live in the hearts of the people, the Black Liberation Army and other revolutionary groups, for his work will be part of the blueprint for tomorrow.

We hope we will learn by our warrior's great love. Clean our guns and prepare for the next battle. And whoever was a part of this unforgiveable crime must and will pay. We have nothing to lose but our chains. The struggle continues. Support the Black Liberation Army!!!
