

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

Hadiyat

1. By the steeds that run, with panting breath
2. And strike sparks of fire
3. And push home the charge in the morning
4. And raise the dust in clouds the while
5. And penetrate forthwith into the midst of the enemy masses
6. Truly man is to his Lord ungrateful.
7. And to that fact he bears witness by his deeds
8. And violent is he in his love of wealth.
9. Does he not know when that which in the grave is scattered abroad
10. And that which is locked up in human breasts is made manifest
11. That their Lord had been well acquainted with them, even to that day.

AS-SALAMU ALAIKUM

~ MUSAHID DÜR ~

Received your 11/1 note and also 11/7 letter:

Please forgive me for taking so long to reply to your scribes, I've really been having a time trying to adjust my self to the noise, confusion and bull-shit, in my environment. It hasn't been so much adjusting as it is trying to rise above it.

I've been trying to write some very important letters to different comrades and all I've been able to come up with was just a bunch of short notes or nothings at all. I've tried to write this letter no less than 8 times and still don't know if I can complete it.

وإنما نحن في سبيل الله

Anyway in reply to your scribbles, I agree with you 1000% and mainly because I can identify with most of the things you spoke of from my own personal experiences - i.e. spontaneous action and inaction, taking some things for granted while being oblivious with others — and to add over all bad timings.

As we look back we can see that we have suffered much from our in-experience and as a result of the various relative mistakes the chastisement has been severe as well as a reward and blessing.

I personally believe that the chastisement we suffer in the course of reaching our goal is mainly due to the ultimate Jihad/revolutionary struggle we must wage with our selves. That struggle to raise our conscience and conscience level above the relative conditions that we must live as well as forced to deal with the same chastisement a child suffers in trying to stand and walk, he will fall many times or like one trying to solve a maze puzzle, if he gropes his way through it seeking his destination he will run in to many dead ends and frustrating experiences, so he constantly struggles to raise above the puzzle so that he may be able to look down on it. On a practical level I equate that struggle with our constant struggle to raise up from relative conditions, like housing, education, food ect. ect. in order to bring them together into a inter-dependent inter-related working unit. or the struggle rise up from various tactical battles and skirmishes into an over all inter-dependant inter-related strategy. instead of living from one skirmish to the next.

Of course in the beginning stages of struggle it is a necessity that the principle of Armed struggle take on the flavor of de-centralized strategies. in order to get the max. amount of results for energy. but as it progresses-

~~And~~ and spreads it must go through a qualitative change. As with all natural elements that are born. the seeds spread. then they must consolidate and take firm root in the soil to survive, then the process is repeated over and over again with each new generation or epoch in its historical evolution.

I was reading Frantz Fanon's Wretched of the Earth a few days ago and he summed it up beautifully on pages 131 third paragraph to 136 last paragraph. ESP. last paragraph 133; last paragraph 137. (Please read if you have a copy). I think the success of dealing with the necessary tactical (relative) changes lies in timing or the ability to know when to regulate speed without changing direction. i.e. the ability to consolidate energy without compromising principle.

I believe that when we fail to correctly time our qualitative and quantitative changes, the enemy who responds to the initial offensive, takes advantage by consolidating his forces into concentrated elements; to isolate our elements one by one.

Right now I believe is the time to consolidate the squadras, that are already established, into a structural organizational level with chain of command areas of responsibility ect ect. I think the formula "Centralized Strategy and Command. decentralized actions and execution" best satisfies our situation, if we study the principles carefully.

If we study the master sheet of P.O.W.s. carefully we will see a heavy concentration of POW in each kamp and zone. with the correct directive and responsibility they should already be doing the squadra level. if not already done. If not then its a back ward ~~move~~ move. mainly because ~~that~~ we were already on the squadra level before our capture. now its time to consolidate the various squads. to concentrate our energy where ever needed. Please read Regis Debray, Rev in the rev. Page 73 (3) I think we can relate heavily to that situation. Brother Jim, please understand that im using these books so that I can stay within the guidelines of a basic principle you established and I whole heartly support, i.e. staying on a pure theoretical rap. in communications that are open. But everything being for real. And not abstract. we will understand one another.

Big I think our first major phase should be to hook up a Reliable and Air tight system of communications with all those brothers on and off the master list. Asking each one who is willing to respond to give their ideas on some type of structural chain of command as far as a slight step beyond just squad level. — we have the man power, experience, and dedication to fill the bones with the necessary tissues, cells, and flesh, necessary to become successful. Body of course we cant make this general business or open letter type, mainly because this is in the form of internal re-organization after we get the necessary amount of support from all the free elements we formalize, so that when the directives to form squads ect security ect, communication- ect, will have some type of authority and enforcement this is not as far fetched as it may seem, mainly because in the course of writing letters to comrades. the support has been 1000% & we are ready for such a move.

Big there is more I would like to rap to you about, as a matter of fact I will push to come over very soon, (wshA/10A) I hope to be seeing you on the 19th of Nov. when I show to court. so that we can Really get into it.

The idea of code of conduct was and is a beautiful one on the highest level. And from what other comrades have been saying, it is of the highest priority. But the catch to the whole thing is the ability to enforce ones will. The power of arms to enforce what ever or who ever makes a commitment, with out that, it will amount to nothing but. rap and hope, which is also another reason for formalizing that structure on an organizational mainly to take the enforcement off a personal level and make it standard principle and revolutionary law and justice.

once we move from squads level to organizational level, the areas of responsibility can be delegated with authority and it will insure that no squad on a decentralized executional level will be isolated in the course of action, because it will then lift the burden off them to some extent. By helping each other we in turn help our selves, self reliance is in reality group reliance, but of course if we cant enforce this principle it wont even be worth the paper written on.

I also think we are due for some house cleaning also. and if that means my own removal, then so be it, because my love for the principles that many of our comrades died trying to establish means more than my own life.

The above ground structure has proven beyond a doubt that they are unable to shoulder the responsibility of leadership, so now we must do it our selves. Not as self serving entities, or self existing entities but as a army, that has already been established in principle, now its our responsibility to give it substance and fill the void that principles of a Army calls for. of course we know that the enemy just lumped us all together regardless to what we were into. but the uniqueness of this very false situation is, because of the Devils fear he created the foundation for his own doom. like M40 says, He picks up the rock only to drop it on his own foot"

Any way please write back soon and tell me how you feel.
Also discuss it with other comrades. tell them Malik, Bobby Brown, Gene, Kuwesi, Sundiata and Harold Simmons all send their love and greetings, please also extend mine.

How is the joint over there?
