

To: The Comrades.

In the Spirit of Unity, It seems that since my experiences in struggling with ~~brothers~~ when it come to ~~to~~ accepting suggestions or criticisms from certain sisters is valued in the struggle - brothers become very subjective and cheap criticisms, off as personal, unprincipled or ~~to~~ irrelevant to the issue.

Historical brother have chosen to deal with those sisters who pose best of a threat to their egos. I know that many of you brothers won't appreciate this, but it is true. It is this kind of attitude that created a Pauline Joseph and the many other Nightingales.

Here today, we have among our ranks Black Revolutionary women who have been seasoned in the struggle who have suffered and paid a great price for their involvement, who through their indomitable spirit and strength have survived and remains strong ready to carry out the task of revolution. These ~~these~~ sisters such as myself, sister Fulani, Lena Green, Debbie Green ~~and~~ and other sisters these new comers don't know about, have historically struggle against the ~~the~~ incorrect practice and habits of our comrades

Brothers. We have over the years struggle to correct the mistake of the past so that our beloved comrades both dead and jailed shall not have struggle in vain. Some of us have thrown our hands up and said "later, the niggers gas. won't allow them to deal with the criticism that have been waged around their practice." However some of us have hung in and still try to struggle around the issues that we view as real serious and pertinent to our survival.

At this time I feel almost compelled to please with you to not repeat the mistakes of the past. Stop turn to those women who has not go through the revolutionary process of understanding the pressure of what this struggle is all about
